

Invitation to advertisers

Exeter Festival Chorus presents exciting concerts in Exeter and Devon, with a repertoire that ranges from the standard choral works to new commissions and premières.

By advertising in our concert programmes you will:

- Be associated with the highest quality of choral singing, ranging from the standard works by composers such as Bach, Rachmaninov, Mozart, Monteverdi, to new works by major modern composers such as James Macmillan (south-west première of his St John Passion in 2013), Bob Chilcott and Eric Whitacre.
- Present your advertising to discerning audiences who appreciate the high production standards of the concerts, the inspirational leadership of our musical director, Nigel Perrin, and the opportunity to hear internationally known soloists such as opera star Lesley Garrett, baritone Roderick Williams, and the pianist Peter Donohoe. Our concerts in Exeter Cathedral attract attendances of 600 or more; smaller venues, approximately 250.
- Help us to continue printing programmes in an attractive format. The booklets, with full-colour covers, contain information about the music and artists, as well as notes that help the listener to appreciate the works as they are performed.

The following sizes of advertisement are available:
